$10 Million In Highway Work Advised

About $10,400,000 worth of first priority highway projects for Daly City, Pacifica and South San Francisco, have been recommended in a recent county road study by George S. Nolte, consulting civil engineers, Palo Alto.

The $170,000 survey will be handed to the county board of supervisors about the end of November, according to engineer Louis Larson.

Daly City Projects

Proposed for Daly City is a $1,700,000 grade separation at Alemany boulevard with Lake Merced boulevard and Park Plaza drive.

This project is planned to allow free traffic circulation around the Westlake Shopping Center in conjunction with the White street extension of Park Plaza drive with 87th street in Broadmoor. It also ties in with the Daly City project for improving Los Banos and Knowles avenues.

Other Daly City projects include construction of an extension of Southgate avenue to Junipero Serra boulevard and extension of Sullivan avenue along the west side of the new freeway in order to connect Southgate avenue to Eastmoor avenue. Estimated cost is $700,000.

These improvements would complete the traffic circulation plan in the Westlake area, Larson said.

He added that Junipero Serra Freeway construction should remove of the present traffic congestion along the existing arterials connecting onto the San Francisco street system — such as Junipero Serra boulevard, Mission street and Hillside boulevard.

Tying in with the general plan for traffic circulation is the proposed one-way street system for Los Banos and Knowles avenue.

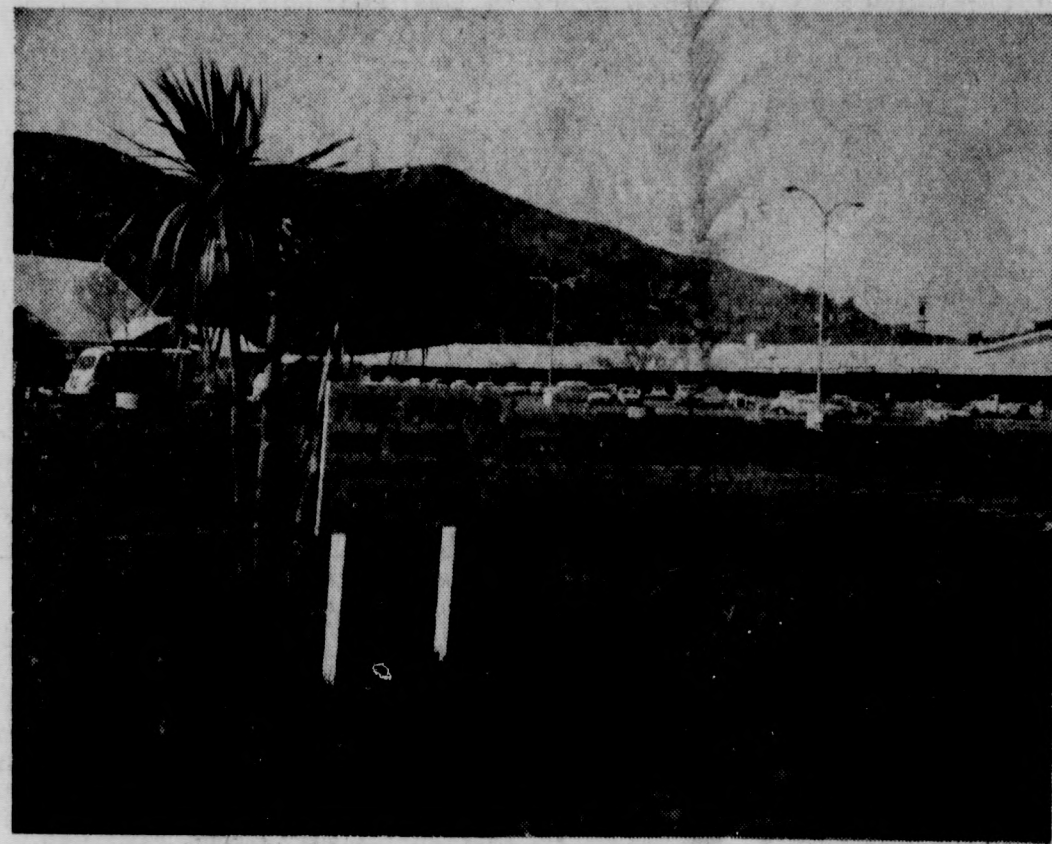

Colma-South San Francisco
The engineers have also recommended that Hillside boulevard be planned as a four-lane thoroughfare from Market street in Daly City along the north city limits of South San Francisco to connect to Bayshore Freeway at Butler road. Cost is estimated at $2,400,000.

Also recommended in South San Francisco is a $1,300,000 extension of Chestnut avenue west to connect to Westborough boulevard, and a new $2,300,000 street along Canal street to connect Chestnut avenue to San Bruno road.

Pacifica's first priority road estimates added up to $1,800,000.

Improvement of Sharp Park Road and the construction of a portion of Skyline Parkway — to connect Sharp Park Road to an extension of Fessler avenue — are the recommendations of Pacifica.

TWAS A BIT MUDDY this week at the Linda Mar Shopping Center as result of recent storm which left over an inch of silt in the parking lot. Linda Mar boulevard, the town's main thoroughfare, was cleaned of mud by Boy Scouts, bulldozers and county highway vehicles.

Citizens Protest New Shopping Center

Citizens complaining about a "dust bowl" and opposed to plans for a new shopping center, turned out to protest Oct. 9 at the Daly City Planning Commission meeting.

Thomas J. Callan, Jr. and Michael C. Callan, 2790 Junipero Serra boulevard, want to rezone 21 acres of property east of and adjacent to Westmoor High School from commercial and multiple family dwelling to all commercial for the purpose of building a new shopping center.

About 35 residents turned out to protest.

They complained they didn't believe this area would support a shopping center and if it went in it would take business away from the St. Francis and Skyline Shopping Center. Residents said a new shopping center would cause the present ones to be downgraded in quality and maintenance and be a detriment to their neighborhoods.

Dust Problem
Other neighbors complained that for three years now Callan has done nothing about a dust problem in the area where trucks haul away fill dirt. They also said rains clogged the city's sewers and spread silt across

Three Hurt In Auto Crashes

Three men were injured in auto accidents this week in Daly City.

Daniel A. O'Connor, 23, of 2835 Scott street, lost two teeth and suffered cut lips when his car struck a traffic island sign near Mission and Templeton streets. A passenger, Phillip Sender, 647 Jones street, San Francisco, was treated for head injuries at Junipero Serra Hospital.

Joshua P. Hatcher, 28, 1107 Anza drive, Pacifica, was treated Tuesday at Junipero Serra Hospital after his small foreign car was struck by an unidentified vehicle at Skyline boulevard and Westmoor avenue.

Sewage Bond Issue For Voters In SSF

The city of South San Francisco, on November 6, will ask its voters to endorse a $1,893,000 bond issue for enlargement of sewage treatment plant facilities.

Two-thirds of the voters must approve this issue. San Bruno's share of the enlargement is $500,000.

South San Francisco's cost is expected to be financed through sewer service charges. Under public law 660, the city is also eligible for a federal grant of $250,000.

South San Francisco must pay a larger share due to her industrial wastes, which are more than that from the human population of both cities combined. South San Francisco also has approximately 11,000 more people than San Bruno.

The present plant was built in 1951 when the combined population of San Bruno and South San Francisco was approximately 32,000. Today it is over 70,000—double the size.

As a result of the increased population and number of industrial plants, the present facilities are inadequate to handle the sewage load. Consequently a definite health hazard has been created with the dumping of untreated, raw sewage into the Bay during peak flow periods. Sewage has even flowed out on the streets in certain locations.

The state water pollution board has raised its standards in this field, with the result that the city is in violation of the law. In March, 1962, the board issued a cease and desist order, stating that present conditions are a health hazard.

Daly City Council Meeting Postponed

The regular meeting of the Daly City council, scheduled for October 22, will be postponed until the following Monday, October 29, as council members and several city officials will be attending a three-day conference of the League of California Cities next week in Los Angeles.

3-More Sign Lease At St. Francis Center

Barton Development Company announces the signing of leases with three more tenants in St. Francis Square Shopping Center at St. Francis Blvd. and Southgate avenue in Daly City. The new stores in the 56,000 sq. ft. retail center will be a Donut-Hamburger Shop to be operated by Ted Lambertson, a babies and juvenile furnishings store to be run by Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Enright of Daly City, and a State Farm Insurance Agency owned by Mr. William R. Bedford, also of Daly City.

The new tenants bring to 14 the number of stores in the Center, which boasts a large Safeway and a Ben Franklin variety as key merchandisers.

A Medical-Dental Building is also being planned as part of the Center, and leases with two leading professional men are being negotiated.

Mr. Grandin of Barton Development Company invites inquiries from prospective lessees — retailers and professional men, at EX 7-1503.

The Center will open for business about December 5.

Damage Minor In DC, So. San Francisco

Reports that Pacifica is washing into the sea proved almost true last weekend, as volunteers turned out to help residents evacuate their homes, hit by a drenching downpour.

Several square blocks were flooded in the lower Linda Mar area and about 50 persons were evacuated from homes.

The storm caused some damage in Daly City and South San Francisco, as city crews worked around the clock.

At the height of the three-day storm, Pacifica was cut off from communication with the outside world, when a landslide on the old Coast Highway knocked out a mainline telephone cable.

Disaster Area

The Red Cross set up a disaster area and persons were evacuated to the Sharp Park School by school bus. National Guard members, soldiers from the nearby Nike base and members of the Daly City Fire Department volunteered their services. The entire Pacifica street department, police reserves and police explorers were pressed into service.

Radio communications volunteers provided their help to send messages to various field points cut off by the storm.

Forty-two trustees from the San Mateo County Jail were sent to help clear foot-deep mud from the streets.

Local Hero

In Daly City, public works department lead man Neil Pezola was the hero. Staying up three nights without sleep, Pezzola singlehandedly diverted water from flooded areas, cleaned catch basins, operated a loader and dug out mud.

"He did a fantastic job," said city engineer William Chapman.

Chapman stated Daly City was "much luckier" than Oakland, since no landslides resulted from the storm. The street department had anticipated the storm and had made a check of the storm drainage system.

Junipero Serra boulevard was flooded at the Alemany intersection, and police were in action slowing traffic. Daly City had the usual amount of mud flowing from the Callan acres on Eastmoor, next to Westmoor High School.

Several trees were blown down and a newly-dug storm sewer line in the 90th street assessment district in back of the Serra Theatre was washed out somewhat by the storm.

Crews worked three days in South San Francisco as the Colma Creek began to flood and filled up half way with silt.

Several basements were flooded and landslides threatened homes. However, no homes suffered extensively, city engineer Louis Goss said.

Sewage backed up and flooded south Canal street, South Maple avenue and a portion of Linden and Victory avenues.

Colma Creek went up to the level of the bridges. Two drag lines were utilized to pull out the silt.

Mayfair avenue in South San Francisco was partially flooded. Spruce avenue and portions of Francisco drive in Francisco Terrace were flooded.

Engineer Goss was concerned over the Colma Creek problem.

"We have drag lines trying to clean up Colma Creek before the next storm comes.

"Until we have a major construction on Colma Creek we are going to continue to have this problem," he said.

Water Rates Explained By City Mgr. Ed Frank

"Recently the Daly City water office and engineering department have been deluged by a considerable amount of inquiries concerning the higher minimum service charge as stipulated in the new water rates put into effect on September 1, 1962.

"The old water rate had a minimum charge of $1.25 per month for each meter in the system, regardless of the size of the meter. The City passed its new water ordinance changing this so that the minimum charge would be $2.50 per month for a typical household 3/4-inch meter and progressively increased for the larger meters.

"This increase in the minimum service charge for larger meters is a logical and fair charge since the capacity of a larger meter requires a greater amount of effort on the part of the water company to supply that potential flow to the user of the larger meter. To supply this larger flow the City must supply a larger main, more storage capacity in its reservoirs, and larger pumps at each of its pumping stations.

"Obviously, it is not logical that the owner of a 3/4-inch household meter should pay the same amount as the customer having a two-inch meter for an apartment complex. Since a two-inch meter has a flow capacity of approximately eight times that of a 3/4-inch meter, it would seem clear that the apartment house should pay the higher minimum rate to compensate the City for the required amount of muscle power to deliver that quantity of water.

"It should be pointed out that the City is discussing only the minimum water billing and not the water rate itself. The water rate, which is the charge for water depending on the amount consumed, is the same for both the large and small meters. Only the minimum billing is charged to compensate the City and equitably distribute the cost among water users for the installation necessary to deliver an instantaneous supply to those users when they do desire the quantity of water for which their meter is capable of delivering.

"With these facts in mind, the City Council wisely adopts a minimum service charge for all water meters based on the delivering capacity of the meter. It should be emphasized that it is no consequence whether or not the customer uses the amount of water which his meter is capable of delivering.

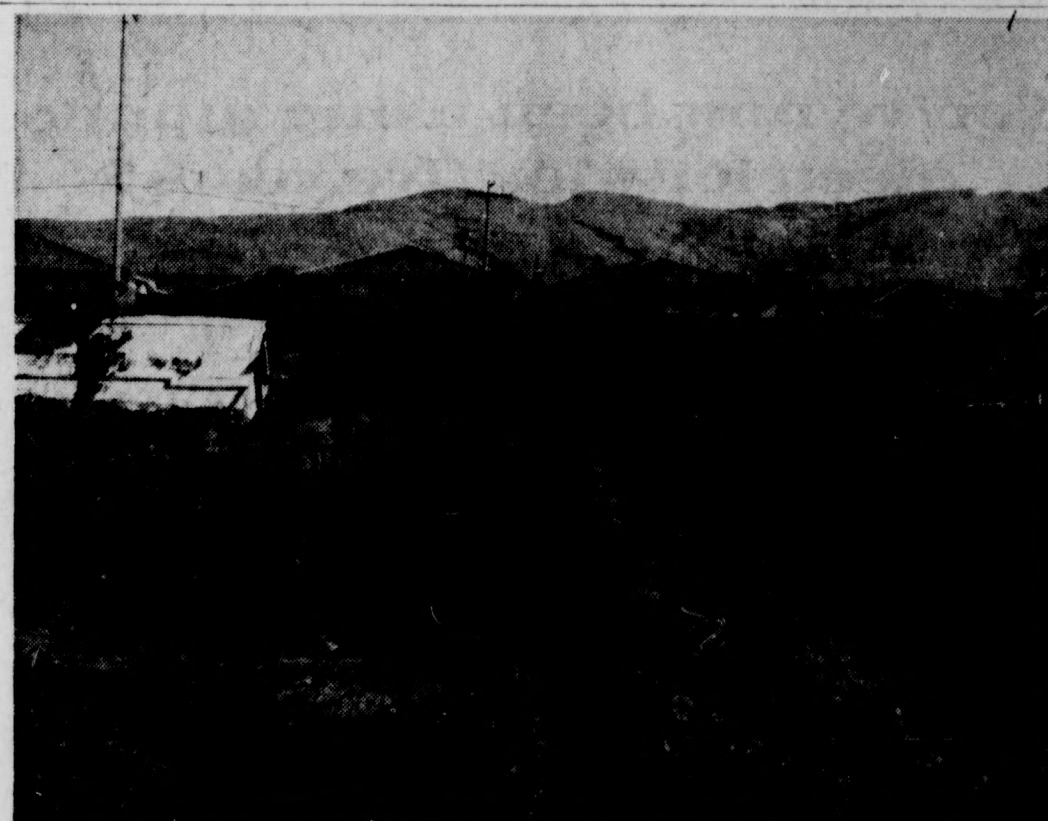

"The fact remains that the water company must invest in equipment necessary to supply the demand of water regardless of its use or disuse.

"The minimum service charge, then, compensates the City for the facilities necessary to deliver water even though the customer might be on vacation or should not be using the water for some other reason. The fact that the water is there, ready to be used, brings substantial benefits to the water users' property and makes this minimum charge an equitable distribution of cost for the City's effort to supply the customer's needs even though that consumer may not exercise his perpetual option to consume water."

EARLY MORNING commuters on San Jose avenue in Daly City were startled last Wednesday, October 10, when a huge truck-trailer rolled away from the curb and smashed into the home of Rufal Augello, 3299 San Jose avenue. Driver Robert E. Mitchell, 420 South 35th avenue, Billings, Mont., said he had parked the truck beside a market, blocked the wheels and went for a cup of coffee. The truck broke loose, jumped the curb, crossed the street, and bounced into the side of the house. Mitchell was cited for failure to curb the wheels.

SCORES OF HOMES were flooded and battered by rain and mud last weekend in Linda Mar in Pacifica. Mud is shown here piled high in open area next to homes across from Linda Mar Shopping Center. The storm washed out homes and left piles of mud and silt everywhere.

It is an opportunity to buy top quality clothes, under the famed Pauson label, at low discount prices.

3 Women Hit In Crosswalk

Three women were struck by cars last week in the intersection of San Jose avenue and Bepler street, and luckily, all suffered only contusions and abrasions.

A cab driver received two traffic citations on October 10 from Daly City police after his car struck two Daly City women as they crossed San Jose avenue at Bapler street.

The women, Mrs. Alma Bissardi, 33, 232 Acton street, and Mrs. Margaret Torre, 48, 273 Acton street, were treated at Junipero Serra hospital for multiple bruises and contusions.

The off-duty cab driver, Harris H. DeGroot, 44, was cited for failure to yield the right of way to a pedestrian, driving with defective brakes and driving with defective windshield wipers.

DeGroot told officers he made a left turn from Bepler, but didn't see the women until it was too late. He said his windshield wipers were not working well.

On October 11, Marini Garon, 594 Price street, a government employee, suffered contusions

You've now been using atomic electricity for five years!

October 24th will mark the 5th anniversary of the Vallecitos Atomic Power Plant . . . America's first AEC-licensed nuclear generating station. This year, PG&E will complete a second atomic power plant at Eureka—twelve times larger than Vallecitos. And we're planning a third, still larger plant at Bodega Bay. Pioneering research and development in atomic-electricity is another way we work to provide plenty of PG&E service at low cost. Of course you've added many new appliances over the years, so your bill is bigger nowadays. But did you know the price of PG&E gas and electricity is 8% less than thirty years ago?

THE RECRUITS . . .

The word goes out that the Police Department is about to recruit people, and the young men obtain application forms at City Hall. Eighty-three men submit completed forms applying for the position of police patrolman.

Personnel people review the forms critically, and reject 13 for various reasons. Seventy applicants are notified to appear for the written entrance examination—and 36 hopefuls appear at the appointed time and place.

The test questions are compiled by the Cooperative Personnel Services, an adjunct of the California State Personnel Board. The test is administered and monitored by William Hawley, Administrative Assistant for the City.

At the completion of the allotted testing time, the examination papers are collected by Hawley for mailing to Sacramento, where they will be marked and graded. The applicants are then herded to a local high school field to perform the physical agility test.

Thirty candidates arrive at the field and undergo the same physical agility test as that which is faced by Army Infantry officers. Twenty-one men perform successfully.

Upon the return of the tests from Sacramento, it is found that nine men are still in the running. The nine are notified to appear for the oral examination phase of their ordeal.

The oral examination is chaired by Hawley, with the applicants being questioned by three visiting police administrators. A member of the Daly City Police and a member of the Daly City Personnel Board sit in as observers. The latter person is Melford Battye, long-time Board member.

Seven survivors emerge from the oral. Later, the Personnel Board promulgates the Police Patrolman eligibility list, and what will henceforth be referred to as "the list" is born.

The list will exist for two years, unless sooner exhausted through depletion, or terminated for some other reason.

The Chief of Police desires to appoint two men. The seven eligibles are notified to appear for a Departmental oral interview. They arrive. The inquisition is conducted by a Captain and a Lieutenant. Each man is asked when he could report for duty if appointed, what his ambitions are in the law enforcement field, why he wants to be a policeman, and what his wife (if any) feels about his working nights.

The hopefuls, groomed and nervous, each walking on eggshells, stammer through the interview. Some are impressive, some are not. All are tense. All are given due consideration. They file by, each with a name—Hunter, Makin, Freeland, Glass, Ryan, Hebel, and Friedberg.

Some of these will be appointed, perchance to become ace investigators, future administrators, dedicated career policemen. One or more may not survive his probationary year, or if he does, may face eventual disgrace and dismissal for misconduct, for the Police Service deals severely with stragglers and recalcitrants within the ranks.

As a condition of employment, the probable appointee is assigned to report to a designated medical doctor for a physical examination. When this is successfully passed, if it is, he is thereupon told off to report to an eminent polygraph operator, retained by the Department. He is subjected to a "lie detector" examination. Successful in this, he is advised of the possibility of his being ordered to return for a like examination in the future, should the Chief of Police decide this to be necessary at any time.

An invasion of privacy, this? Perhaps. On the other hand, whoever said that a policeman rated privacy? The citizen has his right to privacy, but he does not have the right to be a policeman. If the young man wants to be a policeman, he will discover that, practically speaking, he will be putting a number of his citizen's "rights" into the cold storage for the duration of his career.

If the recruit then survives a background investigation, he is appointed. He will take the loyalty oath, and must be made acquainted with his health insurance, uniform allowance, pay and pay deductions, and he is briefly introduced into the vagaries of his pension plan.

He lays out several hundred dollars for the prescribed uniforms and the tools of his new business. (Credit? Gladly! The policeman is a good credit risk, for he can always be located. The Department will insist that he pay his bills, as the clothing purveyor well knows). He is carefully advised as to that which he must possess, and is cautioned against non-regulation materials and articles.

The recruit is oriented around the station and in basics for several days, and then is posted to his first temporary assignment. He will be teamed with an older man ("Older," at least, from point of service), who will instruct him as to the basic do's and don'ts, and who will acquaint him with radio procedure and with beats and beat boundaries, as well as the topographical problems pertaining thereto.

The recruit is posted successively to each of the three platoons comprising the Patrol Division. In each case he is teamed with either a sharp and progressive Sergeant, or with a so-called "older man." This latter is a good procedure where the older man is one who is a well-groomed, progressive, interested example of the "good policeman." Should the recruit be assigned to a soured and disgruntled person with quantity but not quality of experience, then the procedure is a very bad one indeed.

COLOR THE PICTURE AND MEMORIZE THE RULES

FOR YOUR PROTECTION, REMEMBER TO:

- Turn down gifts from strangers
- Avoid dark and lonely streets
- Refuse rides offered by strangers
- Know your local policeman

A little at a time, the recruit is given assignments and responsibilities. Under the watchful eye of his mentor, he will first observe, then experiment, and then finally perform some of the myriad duties charged to the policeman. Later, much later, he will perform alone, subject to the periodic and general scrutiny of his Patrol Sergeant.

When, as occurs once or twice yearly, the San Mateo County Law Enforcement Association conducts the Police Academy Recruit School, he will be assigned thereto. He will attend school 20 hours weekly, and will work 20 hours weekly.

So that he will get the most out of his recruit indoctrination, he will be assigned to two and one-half night of duty weekly. This will allow him to remain awake and attentive at school—and this is advisable in any event, with instructors being drawn from most departments and agencies in the county, and he will be studying under their collective and watchful eyes.

Two of his instructors, in fact, will be from his own department.

Following his three-month recruit course, coupled with his on-the-job training, and supplemented by the continuing daily roll-call training, he may be eventually considered as being capable of performing on his own, out of a one-man radio car.

The recruit then has a busy time ahead of him. The recruits of the past year are only now coming into their own. Three of these are ready to graduate from the present recruit school—Lax, Ingbrigtsen, Guzman. The new recruit will have to measure up to them and to other, more veteran policemen.

If they do not measure up, they will not be here very long. Good luck, as they say, to the new recruits.

Something For Everyone

by Samuel Chandler

Once upon a time, a man named Douglas Jerrold published a book containing specimens of his wit. Everyone who read the book agreed that Mr. Jerrold was a very wise and learned man.

Among the things he said was "a blessed companion is a book—a book that is fitly chosen is a life-long friend." Evidence exists to show that some books have become life-long friends of the patrons of the Daly City Public Library.

The following is a small number of these life-long friends of the people of Daly City. This list was prepared by Miss Jackson, of the John D. Daly Library at 6351 Mission. All of these books can be found there. Copies of most of the books so listed can be found in the Westlake Library as well.

The number of times that these books have been checked out is incalculable. Over the years they have filled the minds of Daly City people with noble and graceful images. They have been borrowed by scholars and casual readers alike. They have gone everywhere with the readers. As near as we can ascertain, every one of these books has been taken to the hospital at least once, and to church and on vacations. Surely these books have given hope to the insolvent and the despondent. They have been read on buses and at home—early in the morning and late at night.

Some of them have been acclaimed as great literature; some have not. All have been "best sellers" in Daly City. Here is the list:

- Blanton, Smiley—"Love Or Perish."
- Dimmet, Ernest—"The Art of Thinking."
- Drucker, Peter F.—"The New Society."
- Durant, W. J.—"The Story of Philosophy."
- Fadiman, Clifton—"The Lifetime Reading Plan."
- Fink, David Harold—"For People Under Pressure."
- Jackson, Barbara Ward—"Five Ideas That Change the World."
- Krutch, Joseph Wood—"The Measure of Man."
- Menninger, Karl A.—"The Human Mind."
- Overstreet, H. A.—"The Mature Mind."
- Porter, Sylvia—"How to Get More for Your Money."
- Powell, L. C.—"The Passion for Books."
- Raybeck, Joseph G.—"A History of American Labor."
- Roosevelt, Anna Eleanor—"You Learn by Living."
- Schindler, John A.—"How to Live 365 Days a Year."

LAW IN ACTION

THE CHANGING SUPREME COURT

The role of the U.S. Supreme Court has changed over the years from a tribunal concerned largely with trials, to a Court engaged almost exclusively in reviewing the decisions of other courts to see whether they applied to the law correctly, or whether the law itself is constitutional.

When the country was small and the law less complicated, work in Washington took only a few months, even though the Court had fewer members and the added duty of serving as the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia as well as the U.S. The justices then often rode circuit, hearing cases as trial judges around the country. By 1850 this combined workload had become so great that it took the Court a full year to hear all of its cases. Thereafter the Court confined itself largely to appellate matters.

Since 1837 the Court has been increasingly selective of the cases it accepts for review, seeking to deal only with cases involving federal or constitutional questions. Out of under the Federal Constitution, 1600 cases filed each year, the Court writes only about 125 cases. The rest of the cases of cases.

are either decided without a formal statement of reasons or dismissed for lack of a substantial question of federal law.

This selectivity is necessary if the Court is to give adequate time and consideration to questions of general importance to the entire nation. Since 1900 there has been a great increase in federal regulation of business through agencies such as the National Labor Relations Board, the Securities & Exchange Commission, and the Federal Trade Commission. Cases involving the action of these agencies and the law they administer today take up much of the Court's time, as do cases involving rights of individuals in constitutional questions. Out of under the Federal Constitution, 1600 cases filed each year, the Court writes only about 125 cases. The rest of the cases of cases.

Noted Writing Instructor To Speak To Friends Of Library

"Ten Easy Steps to Publishing" is the title chosen by Mrs.
William Boggess, Jr., for the talk she will present at the October 15 meeting of the Daly
City Friends of the Library book review meeting.

Mrs. Boggess is a well known Peninsula personality in the field of letters, having been on the San Mateo College staff as an instructor in magazine writing for the past six years. In addition to this professional activity, she is extremely active in both professional and amateur writing groups, working with such groups as the Burlin-game Writers, the Scribblers of Menlo Park, and the Peninsula
Juvenile Writers of San Mateo.

Mrs. Boggess' educational background includes an M.A.
from the University of Texas and graduate study in professional writing at the University of Oklahoma. She has done newspaper work and had numerous short stories and articles published in magazines.

With this broad variety of experience, Mrs. Boggess is qualified to discuss her chosen topic relating to publishing. She intends to cover the characteristics an author must possess to reach the top. Many of her examples will be humorous.

The meeting will, as usual,
be co-sponsored by the YWCA and held at the Westlake Bowl on Thursday, October 25, at 10 a.m. Free nursery service and a coffee hour opening the meeting will be provided as a courtesy of the Bowl management. All interested area residents are cordially invited.

Attention of book review audiences is called to the fact that Thanksgiving Day conflicts with the regular November meeting date, and Thursday, December 13, has been selected as the only meeting for the two months. The topic will be announced specifically in future issues, but will deal with children's literature.

way in San Bruno with his wife and daughter.

Julius F. Castelan, state president of MAPA said, "we are happy Dr. Guerra has been appointed to such an important national post. We members of MAPA congratulate Senator
Richards for his recommendation."

Richards, Democratic nominee for the United States Senate, announced his nomination of Dr. Manuel H. Guerra of San Bruno, prominent in the Daly City educational system, at a meeting with Mexican-American leaders in San Francisco last week.

Richards said Dr. Guerra is "eminently qualified to assume this position and has the full support of the Mexican-American community throughout the state of California." He is state educational chairman of MAPA.

Dr. Guerra is currently director of the foreign language enrichment program in San Francisco and teaches classes in Daly City. He has received scholarship honors from the University of Michigan and State University of New York.
He is one of the few consultants of foreign languages under the terms of the National Defense Act. His work in educational television has also received nationwide acclaim.

"I am deeply honored to be considered for this high office," said Guerra. "Education is today more important than ever and I promise that if appointed, I will do everything in my power to maintain and improve everywhere possible the caliber of our American educational system. I am firmly committed to equal educational opportunities for every American."

Guerra lives at 3981 Colby

Business Women's Folk Dance Group
Plans Mixer Party

Next Friday, October 19,
the Thursday night business women's folk dance group will combine with the Friday couple folk dancers for their first party. Three mixer dances will be taught requiring one man and two women.

While refreshments are being served, director Elsie Maclaren will present colorful descriptions of various areas of Greece, the way its people live, its products and its myths — even a few Greek recipes to copy.

Of course, there will be a folk story, beginning traditionally with "once upon a time there lived a princess," and ending with "and so they all lived happily ever after."

The dance-song, "Gerakina, the Gypsy," will be translated and the folk dance, Gerakina, with the unusual rhythm of seven beats to the measure will be demonstrated. Anatol Jo-kowsky, an outstanding teacher of advanced folk dancers and exhibition groups, introduced this dance about ten years ago and Elsie Maclaren, the local folk dance leader, was "there" when Mr. J., as he is affectionately called, taught it.

The following week, the folk dancers will resume their regular schedule at the Daly City War Memorial Community Center on Mission street, from 8 to 10 p.m., Thursday for the business women's group, and Friday for the couples.

The class for business women is just beginning and there is still time to start with this group. Call PLaza 5-0065 for information.

From A Feminine Viewpoint...

By Mona Baker

Adding so much to the cultural life of the community is the Daly City Friends of the Library. Speaking before their group meetings during the past years have been many noted authors as well as guests prominent in other fields, such as Marian Koehler Rowe, famed television teacher of "Adventure School," and Benjamin Draper, one of the top producers of prestige television programs in the country.

Their book reviews have become an established tradition in the Westlake area, with monthly reviews held every fourth Thursday morning at the Westlake Bowl. In a pleasant, informal setting over a cup of coffee, prominent authors review the latest books. By the way, too, there is nursery care for your little tots, so you spend a most relaxed and rewarding hour.

Scheduled for this Thursday is a general meeting of the group, with guest speaker Coit Coolidge, head librarian of the Richmond Library and one of the most noted library officials in the state. The Friends will also be celebrating the second anniversary of the Westlake Library.

Do plan to attend. We know you'll have a most interesting and stimulating evening.

Our community leader this week is another one of those dedicated citizens who give so generously of time and effort to many community organizations and projects.

She is a charter member of the Daly City Garden Club and the Hillside Improvement Association. She is past president of two organizations, the San Francisco Sportswomen Club and the Women's Council of Grace Presbyterian Church. She has served as regional chairman of United Crusade and to every local drive she has given a helping hand.

In between her many volunteer activities, she also wrote a column for The Record under the name of Diane Daly. She has also had articles published in magazines.

Most active in the Friends of the Library, she has served on their board of directors and heads their organization for the coming year. We salute Elsie Garrison, our community leader of the week!

The Garrison family, husband Hoke, and sons, live at 324 Northgate in Westlake. Mr. Garrison, formerly in business in Daly City for 16 years, recently joined the staff of George Harrison Realty.

Over our desk this week came a most newsy little bulletin with the intriguing title "Winston Snooper." According to editor Ida Saucedo, the paper is a "monthly visitor to residents of Winston Manor No. 1 in South San Francisco." News of birthdays, parties, out-of-town guests keep residents well informed of happenings in their busy community.

One of the most important events on their social calendar is the annual autumn dance, to be held this Saturday night at Brentwood Lodge. Lots of valuable awards (including dinner for two at the Sheraton-Palace Garden Court), and fun besides—so hurry and get your tickets.

Any items, such as toys, books, bric-a-brac, small pieces of furniture, usable items of clothing just taking up space in your closets or garage? The Ladies of the Sodality of St. Thomas More Parish would like to have them for their rummage drive, to be held for one week beginning October 21. The rectory garage, 1300 Junipero Serra, will be opened during this week and articles may be placed there. Larger pieces that you may wish to donate will be picked up; telephone Mrs. Torres, PL 6-7054, or Mrs. Flynn, JU 7-0936.

SOCIAL WHIRL: Fashion shows continue to add glamour to the local social scene, with several scheduled during the next couple of weeks.

Scheduled for this Saturday afternoon is the 12th annual fashion show-luncheon of the Epiphany Guild, with fashions by H. Liebes. Proceeds of the benefit go to the new foreign language study at Epiphany School. November 1 is the date of the next YWCA Thursday Girl Fashion Show, with fashions by Sue Scott Distinctive Apparel.

Riordan Guild is planning a fashion show for November 3.

It was an impressive and solemn occasion for the girls who are members of Skyline Assembly of the International Order of the Rainbow for Girls when the eleventh public installation of officers was held at Crocker Masonic Temple.

A beautiful program printed in gold listed the names of the new officers, lovely in a rainbow of pastel formals.

New elective officers include Worthy Advisor, Sue Dupont, who wore an iridescent apricot formal with a bell skirt; Worthy Associate Advisor, Janice Washburn, was in green; Charity, Leslie Baer, had on a lavender formal; Hope, Nancy Danielson, wore a white formal with flowered insert on bodice; Faith, Cheryl Neugebauer, wore a pale blue formal. Other officers installed that evening included Mimi Ettlinger, recorder; Shirley Hendrickson, treasurer; Trudy Joselynn, chaplain; Nancy Jarvis, drill leader; Dorothy Getchel, love; Cindy Travinsky, religion; Arline Plasky, nature; Sue Sargi, immortality; Dawn Klevesahl, fidelity; Joanne Gamblin, patriotism; Connie Urbanski, service; Ruth Ann Huelese, confidential observer; Mary Markel, outer observer; Carl Hilton, musician, and Eugenia Murphy, choir director.

FASHION HINTS: High fashion for the fall season, fur trim on coats, suits, hats, stoles. Idea to give a lift to last season's suit and be right in fashion's swing. Tack fur pom-pom on covered buttons of suit or even last year's coat. Sew a strip of fur on each end of a stole. Buy a plain velvet band, tack on a strip of fur, and presto! you have a fur hat.

NEWS BRIEFS: New chairman of Saint Mary's Guild is Mrs. Helen Brooks, who was elected at the last meeting of the Guild of St. Martin's Episcopal Church.

An exciting vacation in Yosemite and Pasadena for Grant's manager, Mrs. Green, and husband, Hugh. Guest speaker at the next Friends of the Library book review (October 25) will be Mrs. W. F. Boggess, Jr., talking on form and development of short story.

Table decorations keyed to the holiday theme are being assembled by Mrs. Walter Hennessy, Mrs. Ed Lucett and Mrs. George Brown for the coming luncheon-fashion show of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Elks in South San Francisco. The gala event, "Holiday Eleganza," will be held on November 17.

It will be a gala evening, too, for the Daly City-Colma Lions and their ladies dinner dancing at the Thunderbird Motel on October 27 at their annual Installation Night.

Skyline Assembly's "Can-Can" dancers will perform for the San Francisco Chapter, Order of De Molay, on October 14 and at the youth dance sponsored by Arleen Hansen Weds John Luft In Episcopal Rites At T. I.

If you are like us, you are probably sick, sick, sick of reading stories about the just concluded World Series. To read all of the local papers, you would think that it was the most important thing that has happened since Carter invented Little Liver Pills.

However, if you let us infringe on your reading habits just this one more time, we promise not to write another word on the World Series until next year. And we promise that this will be different.

We were thinking the other day what would have happened if the Giants had been forced to play last Saturday when the water was almost knee deep in Candlestick Park.

The following is an excerpt from a Russ Hodges-Mel Allen play-by-play as it might have been if the teams played Saturday:

HODGES: "Felipe Alou, the batter, 0 and one on the count, Ford winds up . . . and here's the pitch. Wait a second, the umpire has called time. Alou's bat is floating down the first base line."

"Okay, Ford is ready again . . . here comes the pitch, called strike right across the hip-boots. Ford brushes off the poly-wogs and reaches for the rosin bag in the tackle box."

"Alou is set—wait a second . . . the ump calls time again as a stray water skier skis across the infield."

"Here's the pitch . . . Alou tags a long drive to center field . . . Mantle slashes back . . . whoops. Mantle has disappeared under a wave in center field. Maris is rowing his way towards him. They have him and are applying artificial respiration awaiting the arrival of the rescue boat."

"Mantle is okay, folks, he is getting to his feet, listen to that applause—there goes one of the greats of the game just a little muddy and wet is all."

"Wait a second, in the excitement, Alou has been lost. He was last seen rounding second base. Alou is Willie, I mean missing—Alou Folgers folks . . . I mean—Oh, my, I am upset, here is Mel Allen, folks."

ALLEN: "Ah this is the voice of the Yankees, Mel Allen speaking. They have just found Alou. He was in the dugout all the time. There is no need for alarm, folks."

"There is some discussion as to whether Alou touched home plate. The Giant outfielder claims that home plate was floating past second and he touched it there. Cletis Boyer is claiming that he missed third—but Cletis can't find third base."

"Here comes manager Ralph Houck from the dug-out . . . he is mad . . . look at those big strides he is taking—WHOOPS. That's okay, Ralph baby. Shake it off. Houk has mud all over his face and apparently can't see. He is arguing with Whitey Ford."

"Here comes Elston Howard out to the mound, scraping the barnacles off his catcher's mit. Wait a minute, there is Russ Hodges out on the playing field. He is running up the third base line with a can of Folgers and a carton of Herbert Tareyton's. Poor Russ doesn't see that row boat—Oh, my God, Russ."

"Wait a second, there is a flock of seagulls attacking Maris in right field. The whole park has gone berserk . . . it is utter pandemonium."

"Let me use that press box phone," utters Allen. "Hello, United Airlines—when is the next flight back to New York? . . . Thank you . . . Can you send a boat to Number One Harney Road. Wonderful."

"This is Mel Allen, folks, saying, 'See you at Toots Shor's in three hours.'—Silence."

ON THE SIDELINES: . . . One of the most improved players in the NFL is 49er end Bernie Casey. Last year Casey looked terrible. This year he is up for All League honors.

The Oakland Raiders have activated former San Francisco State fullback Willie Simpson. Simpson played under Joe Vercucci at SF State.

Ram Frosh-Soph Footballers Down Terra Nova F-S 27-6

Terra Nova's frosh-soph gridgers were overpowered by a strong offensive and even stronger defensive Westmoor team last Thursday, 27-6.

Scoring was evenly distributed with four Rams hitting pay-dirt. Edinoff, Price, Rodriguez and Knight each accounted for six points.

Rodriguez and Sullivan each converted an extra point.

Biggest ground gain of the day was Sullivan, whose longest runs were for 70 and 55 yards, neither of which reached the end zone.

Hard luck cost the Rams two more scores as they fumbled twice within Terra Nova's 15-yard line.

Jim Heck, former Westmoor football star, has a brother in the family who will be following his footsteps at the same position Jim played. Freshman

Deer Violations Top DFG Cases

Violations concerning deer topped all fish and game court cases in California's central coast counties during the month of September, reports the Department of Fish and Game's San Francisco regional office.

Thirty-five persons charged with deer violations paid a total of $3,154 in fines assessed by the courts and served a total of 62 days in jail.

Ram Gridgers Hum 'Easy Street'

The prevalent tune around the hilltop campus of Westmoor this week is "Easy Street."

The green and white Rams, after taking a 21-6 torrential battering from the undefeated Serra Padres last Friday, move down to the quiet coastside this week for a tussle with winless Oceana.

Kick-off time is 3:15 p.m. on the new Oceana field.

The grid bout is the official opener of the new North Peninsula League, one-part successor of the famed and now extinct Peninsula League.

The reasons that the Rams are singing the "Easy Street" tune is that the Oceana team, made up of sophs and juniors, has failed to win a game this year.

As a matter of fact, you might say that coach Jeff Jones thin ranks have failed to even come close.

The Sharks have lost their only two games, 33-0 to Lick Wilmerding and 39-13 to Jefferson.

On the other hand the Rams, tabbed for the first NPL title, have split four games this season. They lost their opener 7-6 to Aragon, routed Ravenswood 26-6, downed Burlingame 20-6 and lost to tough Serra 21-6.

The loop opener against the Sharks is expected to be little more than a scrimmage for coach Pete Matisi's gridgers.

The Rams have shown a strong potential at times this year, while Oceana is not expected to win a game.

The Shark's nucleus is built around guards Happy Andrews and Mickey Nance, and fullback Steve Redmeister.

The Ram team, on the other hand, a wealth of returnees. Most notable of the returnees, and an almost cinch for All-NPL honors, is halfback Mike DeBernardi. The senior speedster has rushed over the 100 yard mark in a single game this season.

Also bolstering the Rams is end Steve Schmuck. Schmuck, an All PL selection last year, is a candidate for All Northern California honors.

Other star performers for the talent-laden Rams are quarterback Bruce Hix and linebaker Ron Baker.

Hix, who can throw short or long, hit five out of 11 last Friday despite the blizzard and storm present on the Ram field.

Baker is only a sophomore, but one of the more alert linebackers in the league. The blonde youngster improves tremendously with each game. Also starring for the Rams is tackle Bob Hanson, the 210 pound anchor of the Westmoor forward wall.

All of these, plus many others, will go up against the novice Oceana crew Friday afternoon.

In last week's tussle with Serra, the Rams bowed to one of the top prep teams in Northern California. The unbeaten Padres have rolled over four straight opponents.

The weather made it almost impossible for passes and punts—forcing the team to the ground, even on fourth down plays.

The local lone score came late in the fourth period when Hix rifled a seven yard shot to Schmuck, and the glue-fingered end grabbed it in the muddy pigskin for the score.

Hix hit on five out of 11 passes for 44 yards. Three of his aeriels were gobbled in by Schmuck. In the rushing department ace DeBernardi was limited to ten yards all day over the slippery turf. Dave Mahoney led the Ram carriers with 26 yards in 17 tries.

Indians, Tigers Try Again

With the weatherman taking the first of what was intended to be a two-game series, the Jefferson Indians and Terra Nova Tigers will vie for the remaining game honors this Friday afternoon.

Once again the game has been scheduled for the Terra Nova field at 3:15 p.m.—which exactly one week earlier to the minute was submerged under four inches of water.

This time the weatherman has cast a clear and favorable gaze on the skirmish and the game should go on.

The Indians from the Mission street campus of Daly City will enter the contest the slight favorites. Both teams should be well rested and in top physical shape for the clash.

The game will be the first North Peninsula League game for both teams.

Both squads are sporting identical 1-2 records. Last week's rain-outed practice tilt was for "kicks," so to speak. However, this week's clash is the real McCoy and counts very big on the league standings.

The Indians will be led into Friday's fray by co-captain Daryl Crist. The big 210-pound center is almost a sure choice for All-League honors.

Also pacing the Indians into Terra Nova Friday will be sleek halfback Ed Nathan. Nathan, one of coach Joe McGrath's late-season discoveries, has shown good speed and broken field running.

Others who are expected to bolster the Indians' chances for the initial league victory are tackle Al Lonstrom, end Rich Waller and quarterback Larry Ahuna.

Chief noisemaker on coach Floyd Gonella's Terra Nova squad is quarterback Manuel Pick. Pick, who in 1961 was an All-League Honorable Mention Guard, was switched over to the signal-calling post and has been doing an admirable job to date.

His last time to the post, Pick connected with two TD aeriels. Aiding Pick in the Tiger backfield are hard-running Denis Caruthers and fast back Fred Mason.

In the line Gonella has center Gary Prince, guard Dan Gentry, tackle Mike Lally and end Bob Pettit.

Napa Marshes Open To Public Hunting

The Napa Salt Marshes will be operated as a public waterfowl hunting area again this year. Hunting, by permit, on the 5,000-acre North Bay area will be managed by the Department of Fish and Game under an agreement with the Leslie Salt Company.

A $3 permit will entitle the waterfowler to hunt and day of the week throughout the entire season which opened at 12 noon on Oct. 13. There is no hunter quota and hunters may come back as many times as they wish.

Warriors Meet Colts In NPL Opener

The boys from "B" street meet the lads from Old Mission Road in a game filled with so much drama and excitement it could be the basis for a television thriller.

The game that all of South San Francisco has waited two years to be played has finally arrived. This Friday night at 8 p.m. under the arcs at South SF's Clifford Field the mighty Warriors of Old SF engage the cross-town yearlings of El Camino in the city's first inter-city grid clash.

It will also be the first-ever game of the spanking new North Peninsula League and the winner of this game will be vying with Westmoor for the title.

Over 3,000 fans are expected to file into the stadium before game time, many of them undecided as to which side to sit on.

Some of the parents have children in both schools, and still others are old grads from South San Francisco with children at El Camino.

Whichever side they choose, it is certain to be a sellout.

The one dark cloud which takes the edge off of the otherwise "Big Game" fever in the city is the condition of the El Camino squad. Three weeks ago the young gridgers, in their very first varsity game, suffered painful time burns from the striped field in a game against Castlemont of Oakland.

Over 16 of the gridgers were afflicted with the burns. Youthful mentor Tom McCormick has had to sweat through the tedious recovery period with only a limited number of youths at practice.

McCormick reported yesterday that five of his first team men still haven't been released by the doctors and are improbable starters.

Named to the out-of-action list were quarterback Mark Avelar, who is suffering from inflamed eyes, and end Alan Schlupe, fullback Bruce Castellanos, tackle Russell Lee, and end Dennis Davis—all still being treated for the burns.

"The unfortunate incident put us three weeks behind everybody else and left us only at half-strength," said the disheartened McCormick. "But we will give it our best," he added, rather optimistically.

McCormick, along with assistant coaches Bob Sexton and Harry Pitkoff, have been working feverishly all week trying to get their squad in shape.

If the Colts should upset the native Warriors, it would have to be considered one of the biggest upsets in modern-day prep history.

The Warriors, coached by likable Ray DeJong and assisted by Marv Ashby and Tony Fardella, will be looking for their third win of the season.

South SF, one of the top teams in Northern California last year with an 8-1 record, has met defeat twice. The team lost to Riordan and Capuchino. On the other side of the ledger, the blue and white gridgers from B street have dumped San Lorenzo, 20-0, and San Mateo, 13-6.

The Warriors are led by hard-driving fullback Steve Balopolos, fleet halfback Jesse Miller, halfback Jim Shutz, and smooth-throwing southpaw quarterback Rich Wickersham.

In last Friday afternoon's contest against San Mateo on the latter's field, the DeJong-men had to brave both the weatherman and the quick breakaway backs of San Mateo.

The Bearcats took a 6-0 lead in the second period and held on until late in the fourth period. The Warriors finally found their offensive strength and proceeded to whip out two fourth-quarter touchdowns to stave off defeat.

The first came when Shutz rambléd eight yards around left end into the end zone, concluding a 40-yard drive.

The conversion failed and the score stood at 6-6.

The South SF crew came right back, recovering a Bearcat fumble on the later's 22-yard line. This time Wickersham took the ball in on a one-yard keeper for the deciding score of the game. Balopolos ran the conversion over for the Warriors' 13th point.

Shutz was the top ground gainer with 74 yards in 15 carries for a 4.9 yard average per carry. Miller was next with 62 yards in 11 carries for a 5.6 average.

Half Moon Bay Drag Strip Readies For Championship

The Champion Speed Shop Special, home after last week's world's championship run-off in Houston, Texas, will be the feature attraction on Saturday night, October 20, at the Half Moon Bay drag strip.

Piloted by its youthful and talented driver, Sammy Hale, the Special will go through a series of tune-up races for the following week's Annual Half Moon Bay Championships.

Also featured this week will be other top stockers and dragsters in Northern California, getting the feel of the Half Moon asphalt before the October 27 and 28 Championships.

Featured in the Championship races will be the top stock cars and drag racers on the West Coast, including the National Stock Car Champion Hayden Profit from Los Angeles in his 1962 Chevrolet.

Also included in the array of top mechanical stars will be the new World's Speed Record holder in the quarter mile, the M&R Special from San Leandro. The dragster recently grabbed the world's title with a clocking of 189.99 mph in the quarter mile.

In last week's loss in Texas, the South SF dragster barely missed being crowned the World's Champion Dragster.

The local lost out in third heat of a best two-out-of-three series. With each car holding one win, the two lined up for the decider.

Hale whipped the Champion Special several lengths out in front of the defending champ when the front wheels suddenly lifted and the car swerved momentarily, allowing Vance Hunt of Houston in the number one dragster, to just slip by him. Hale had the best elapsed time for the quarter with 8.33 seconds.

Accompanying Hale to Houston were Jim McClellan, Kent Fuller and John Zucca.

Antlerless Deer Hunts Going Well

All of the controlled antlerless deer hunts being held in Monterey and San Luis Obispo Counties to reduce deer surpluses and agricultural depredation are going smoothly, notes the Department of Fish and Game.

For each of the hunts—all requested by the land owners—a limited number of permits was issued by public drawing and no additional permits are year assignment in Africa, Kingsby will continue his education, hoping to enter one of the Bay Area juvenile probation programs.

CSM Boxer Joins Peace Corps

A young man who wants "to help somebody because other people have always helped me" left October 12 for Massachusetts to begin his training for a Peace Corps assignment in the Ivory Coast project.

Washington Kingsby, a 24-year-old College of San Mateo sophomore and an outstanding amateur boxer, responded six weeks ago to the Peace Corps call for athletes to the Peace Corps call for athletes to the African assignment.

"I had been thinking about entering the Peace Corps ever since it began, I really wanted to do my part to help," he said. "But I felt that my skills did not fit any of the earlier projects. Then, at the end of August, I read about the need for trained athletes to teach in the Ivory Coast project. I applied, took my tests, and got a wide of acceptance this week."

Now a penology major, specializing in juvenile probation, Kingsby transferred from San Jose State to College of San Mateo this fall. Prior to entering San Jose State, he served in the Marine Corps, attaining the rank of sergeant. For part of his time in the service he coached the First Marine Regimental boxing team and in 1958 was coach of the base boxing team.

Kingsby's own boxing experience began at the Oakland Boys' Club. "People helped me," he said, "and I became interested in boxing as a sport. His interest led to Golden Gloves participation in 1955, when he went to the semi-finals in the feather-weight division in Kansas City. He has also been the Golden Gloves titleholder in the Southwest Border area and held the Eleventh Naval District championship in the 132 pound division.

His boxing skill, along with his other training in athletics, will be applied in the Ivory Coast project, in which a sports program will be developed as one method of breaking down traditional tribalism.

Clyde Connor, San Francisco 49er end, was the waterboy on the South San Francisco High School football team in 1948. Coach Ben Bramble was hit with a series of injuries to his ends, so he pleaded with Connor to turn out for football.

The first Warrior game that Clyde ever played in, he caught three touchdown passes.

Chuck Hiller, the only National Leaguer ever to hit a grand-slammer in the World Series, made more money off the series than he made on regular salary during the season with the Giants.

The Peninsula Winter Baseball League has four players whose dads were prominent in organized baseball. They are Bob Joyce, Jr., son of former Seals 30-game winner; Barry Krohn, offspring of PCLer Harry Krohn; Johnny Cavalli, a chip from ex-Seal timber Johnny, Sr.; and Dennis Joost, whose pop is one-time Philadelphia A's pilot—Eddie.

Bill Laws, the former voice of the Oakland Oaks and California Bears, is now sportscasting the University of Pacific games on radio and also managing the Tanforan Race Track Golf Course in San Bruno.

There's a rumor circulating that Rams halfback Ollie Matson will return to San Francisco, where he made his biggest headlines as an All-America for USC. Ollie, holder of a teaching credential, is reportedly interested in coaching football at new Southeast High School.

Cal's football team may not be much at this moment, but the Bears appear to have the best talent since the Johnny Olewski era. In two weeks the Bay Area will get a gander at the best-looking soph QB to play around here in years. His name is Craig Morton, a wowzy player who was injured in the pre-season.

Phil Woolpert, coach of the awesome NCAA championship USC Dons, is wasting little time gathering material for University of San Diego, which is Phil's newest challenge. (Woolpert lives in an 18-room mansion on campus.) One of Woolpert's best catches is St. Elizabeth High's Kevin Furlong, a kid with miles of talent. . . . Pete Peleeta, current Dons' cage coach, just returned from Japan, where he taught a special summer basketball clinic to armed services personnel.

The Green Light Bandit, Maury Wills, may have stolen more bases than any man in modern baseball history, but he couldn't steal a job as a pitcher on the Giants. The great little LA shortstop went three innings and struck out all nine batters in a Giant tryout camp. But Wills was cut loose because he was too small.

Pee Wee Reese, former Dodger shortstop, was asked recently how he did in the World Series the day Don Larsen of the Yankees threw his perfect game. Pee Wee quipped, "I didn't get any hits."

The Washington Huskies, who have no professional football competition to contend with, averaged 52,700 fans at their six home games last year. . . . Meanwhile, the USC Trojans could draw only 38,000 on the average in LA, which is the hub of professional sports. Troy, which plays before 50,000 houses on the road, obviously would rather play their games away. What really bugs me is being at a pro game which is being televised. I have to wait "extra time" so that the sponsors can put on commercials between kickoffs. I love sports, but the commercial aspects of the game are beginning to turn my stomach.

GREAT MOMENTS: 1940—Stanford, unbeaten and headed for the Rose Bowl, find themselves trailing 10-0 in the second half in their game with Washington. But Frankie Albert and Pete Kmetovic collaborate on 56-yard pass play which broke the Huskies backs and sent the Indians to Pasadena. . . . 1941—Stanford win streak ends, as Oregon State trudges through Corvallis mud for 10-0 triumph. Beavers go on to beat Duke, 20-16, in transplanted Rose Bowl in Durham, N.C. The three Ds star—Don Durden, Bob Detham and Bill Day.

Castle Lanes Strikes 'n Spares

The little mite, Midge McMahon, leads in the Ken Bailer Classic with his 628, but even with help from his partner, John O'Hanessian's 617, they could only win one game from Hoffman Plumbers for Lerios Travel Service. Earl Denham led the Plumbers with a 608.

Larraburu French Bread, with Joe Jacques as the head broker, shot a 613 to win two games from Ken's Flying 'A'. The gas boys had Lou Presley as their top man with a 611.

Dichiera Builders shook their slump with Jerry Hale leading the Carpenters with a 627, while Ed Nagel had 571 and was the best for the ice cream boys. John Bazzanella took charge for the City Grille and Radiator with a 589 and also three victories over the Castle Lane Kids.

After six weeks of play, the Ken Bailer Classic's bottom team is only three games out of first place. Hoffman Plumbers and the City Grille and Radiator are tied for first place.

This Saturday and Sunday, October 20 and 21, the BPAFA all star eliminations will take place at Castle Lanes. All of the best bowlers from the Bay Area will compete at Castle. If you are not bowling, come on out and see these great bowlers perform. There will be a squad in the afternoon and also one in the evening. Remember, Saturday and Sunday, October 20 and 21.

McFadden Wins Trophy
Determined Terry McFadden

The Peninsula's newest college gridiron rivalry will begin Saturday evening when College of San Mateo travels to Foothill College for an 8 o'clock Golden Gate Conference game.

The adversaries in the new junior college conference are deadlocked at 1-0 in league standings after rain-outs the past weekend.

City College of San Francisco, the only GGC team to play during the storm, literally swam over Oakland, 12-0, on Friday afternoon to boost the loop's best record at 2-0.

Flooded fields and highways forced cancellation of the three other contests, scheduled for later in the weekend, and all will probably be made up at the end of the season, during the Thanksgiving holidays.

When Contra coach Vince Maiorana requested postponement Saturday morning of the Comets' contest that afternoon at College of San Mateo, it marked the first time in CSM's 42-year football history that a game has been postponed.

The postponement won't hurt CSM, claims Doug Scovill and if anything will benefit the Bulldogs. Starting halfback Clarence Hamel will get a chance to give a sore ankle additional rest and San Mateo no longer must play its probable three toughest games in a row.

Following the Foothills contest, the Bulldogs entertain San Francisco during Homecoming activities on October 27. The rough GGC schedule slackens only slightly after that with hard to score on Chabot due next.

Last week's Williamson junior college ratings placed San Mateo fourth in the nation while the JC Grid-Wire had the Bulldogs ninth, Contra Costa eighth, and Foothill eleventh.

Abbey feels the rain-out will not affect his Owl squad at all but doesn't mind having a little extra time to prepare his squad for the clash with CSM and also giving the Bulldog coaches one less game to scout.

"We're concerned since San Mateo eats up our type of defense," Abbey submits. "Therefore, we're going to have to change our defense — something we don't like to do, but feel is necessary for this game."

Abbey saw CSM against Diablo Valley and Stockton. "San Mateo has a very good football team and so do we, he observes. "Consequently, we're going to have a very good football game Saturday night. If we lose, it's not going to be by a 42-0 score."

Abbey contends that San Mateo has "a very good psychological advantage over most teams with its well known type of play and press raves. But we're not going to be awestruck by them. We'll play with them and we're not going to give in to them."

The game concludes "Football Festival Week" at Foothill, the Owls' version of a homecoming celebration, but the Bulldogs have intentions of putting a damper on festivities.

Only one game has been played on the field this year. Foothill's 48-8 smash of the Santa Clara University freshmen, which set a new Foothill school scoring record. In other games, the undefeated Owls were victorious at powerful Santa Monica, 23-16, and in their league opener at San Jose, 20-6, their first win in history over the Jaguars. Foothill currently rides a four-game victory streak back to a 26-20 season's finale in 1961 over Cabrillo College.

The Owls are well balanced according to Abbey and Scovill agrees. "However," adds the Foothill boss, "if we have a strong point, it's our overall team speed. We're not really fast but we have a quick line."

The Owls have an impressive offense, spearheaded by quarterback Steve Moreno, who has tossed for 915 yards on 47 completions in 116 attempts during his Foothill career of 12 games. Nine of his aeriels have been six pointers.

Fullback Doug Schoenewetter, 1960 letterman, has picked up 313 yards rushing in three games and scored four times. He's a workhorse with 69 carries. Fresh halfback John Travis, who Scovill noted is also a fine linebacker, has by far the best rushing average on the Owl squad at 10.6 on 22 carries for 233 yards.

two weekend hunt periods. On the Botts Bros. Ranch in Monterey County, 85 hunters took 70 deer for 82.2 per cent hunter success in the first of two weekend periods.

The Adelaida and El Pomar hunts in San Luis Obispo County were completed this past weekend. On the Adelaida, 374 hunters took 215 deer for 57.5 per cent hunter success. On El Pomar, 232 hunters took 156 deer for 67 per cent hunter success.

Work Education Program For Special Class Students

The Jefferson High School District has recently hired Mrs. Mildred Waldelich to coordinate teaching for a work-education program for special class students at Jefferson Union High School.

She outlined her program as follows:

Who Are Special Class Students?

Special class high school students have specific learning limitations. While they are limited in learning ability, they are hard-working, honest and reliable.

In addition, their physical fitness is comparable to the student with normal learning ability. These are youngsters whose eventual employment will be in the unskilled and semi-skilled jobs. They are not the scholars of our schools. The academic sights we set for them must be within their abilities.

They will eventually be the workers who have the tolerance for simple and repetitive jobs. They will not constantly be looking for a better job, for they will take pride in their ability to do a simple job well.

What Are Their Needs in Becoming Productive Citizens?

These students, because of their limitations, require more teaching. They need a training program to teach them how to find and hold full-time jobs after graduation from high school.

The classroom training which we have been giving them until now is inadequate. It may teach them to read and to write and to do sums, but these skills have little to do with the practicalities of finding a job, dressing appropriately for a job, getting along with fellow workers, spending and saving the money earned, fulfilling the responsibilities to the employer, and holding onto the job.

It is these skills that we must teach our special class students if they are to become productive citizens.

What Can Be Done to Help Them Meet These Needs?

These students need special work education programs designed especially for them to provide them with classroom instruction and job experience in their communities. We must start to prepare them for employment in the ways we have found are successful. This is by teaching them in the way they can best learn, through giving them realistic and practical job training on actual jobs while they are under the supervision of the schools.

What Is Being Done in California Communities?

Some California communities, such as Santa Barbara, Berkeley and Livermore have successful work education programs. In each of these towns the program is set up in a similar manner. Students attend classes in the morning and work at outside jobs in the afternoon. A teacher-coordinator works closely with employers in preparing and evaluating trainees. The student's experiences on these jobs teaches them the responsibility of employment. Coordinated classroom work reinforces the things these students learn at their jobs.

Santa Barbara, a community probably less industrialized than the Daly City area, operates one of the most successful work-education programs in California. Businessmen in Santa Barbara have been so pleased with their trainees that many now contact the school to offer employment to special class students.

What Kinds of Jobs Do These Programs Provide?

Local businessmen already working in cooperation with their local school district provide opportunities for students to do the following kinds of jobs: stock boys, laundry workers, janitors, mail clerks, mechanics, helpers, bus boys, counter girls and many others.

What Is Being Done Here in Jefferson High School?

Our district is now expanding the classroom teaching and inaugurating its work-education program.

tion program. A teacher-coordinator has been hired who teaches the special class students in the morning. In the afternoons, the teacher-coordinator contacts employers both to place students and to check the progress of students already working.

What Will Happen to These Children If We Do Help Them?

A few will find jobs on their own. A large number will end up becoming a burden, first to their parents and eventually to the taxpayers. Studies have revealed that these special class students do not move out of their home communities. If we are unable to help them become self-supporting, their support will come from our tax dollars.

What Can You Do?

These students must have job training opportunities. As a civic-minded member of our community you can help provide these job training situations. We need to know where the training jobs are and who can provide them. Perhaps, you have work for one of these students yourself and don't realize it. If you think you may have a job but are not sure whether it is suitable, we will be happy to talk it over with you. For further information, contact Mrs. Mildred Waldelich, teacher-coordinator, Jefferson High School, PL 5-6661.

Curriculum Workshop At A. Lincoln School

Three Curriculum Workshops for new Primary Grade teachers in the Jefferson Elementary School District have recently been conducted in the Abraham Lincoln School library under the direction of Mrs. Marjorie Yates, curriculum consultant.

On Thursday, Sept. 28, the subject discussed was Reading in the Primary Grades. Key teachers from each grade were available for grade level discussions. Miss Marjorie Shields represented the kindergarten, Mrs. June Koenig and Mrs. Melanie Fernekes, the first grade; Mrs. Janet Rizzo and Mrs. Beverly Russ the second grade and Mrs. Mary O'Rourke and Miss Jane Kane the third grade.

Arithmetic was the subject under discussion when the primary teachers met again on Thursday, Oct. 4. The chairman at this workshop were: kindergarten, Mrs. Rosemary Hillman and Mrs. Sharon Gibbons; first grade, Mrs. Dwight Toschi and Mrs. Mary Chelios; second grade, Mrs. Georgina Nyhan and third grade, Miss Lynette Hoffman and Mrs. Elizabeth Johnson.

The Social Studies workshop was conducted on Thursday, Oct. 11. Discussions were led by Mrs. Gladys Benofsky and Miss Barbara Perry, kindergarten; Mrs. Arlene Byers and Mrs. Shirley Mitchell, first grade; Mrs. Mary Helen Monroe and Mrs. Alanna Cottrell, second grade; and Mrs. Barbara Busetto and Mrs. Kay Relyear, third grade.

Vista Mar School Student Body Elected

Representatives of Vista Mar student body elected the following officers for the school year: Bruce Tronoff, chairman; Donald Wood, vice chairman; and Janice Martin, secretary.

The representatives discussed the certain factors involved in good sportsmanship and returned to their rooms to make their report to the class. Further business involved the selection of two representatives with leadership ability and who are service-minded to represent Vista Mar at the Junior Red Cross workshop in Burlingame on Saturday, October 27, from 10 a. m. to 12 noon. Chosen for this honor were Bruce Tronoff and Janice Immsick. Transportation to Burlingame will be provided by their mothers, Mrs. Tronoff and Mrs. Immsick.

TOUR OF FARM

Touring the U. C. Agricultural Extension Division's farm in Half Moon Bay, taught Mrs. Schneider's and Mrs. Alta Reed's second grade children about the products raised for human need, and how these are handled in mills and dairies.

Two guides and 4 high school assistants showed the boys and girls the milking machines, the pumping of the milk into cooler tanks, and the transfer of the milk to large trucks, which transport it to the Sun Valley Dairy.

Mrs. Schneider said, "We were impressed by the cleanliness of the entire farm, and the spotless barns. This provided the children with a good lesson for community health."

Handling the sheep by the classes, was one of the highlights of the trip. Children saw the sheep shorn, an event performed once annually. They learned that the raw wool was shipped to woolen mills where it is made into the material used in making their clothing.

Growing and processing wheat is the study to be followed next in the social studies unit of both classes. The pupils are viewing and discussing films pertaining to these phases. On November 7, another study trip will take the children to the Kilpatrick Bakery.

Four New Student Teachers At Westlake Elementary

Four student teachers have been assigned to the Westlake School faculty as youngsters and teachers embark on their fifth week of school. The four, from San Francisco State College, are: Eloise Lambert, Dnette Sharon Felts, Karen Niderost, and Esther Harris.

Miss Harris, whose training teacher is Mrs. Elise Spellberg, is a graduate of Lowell High School and formerly attended the University of California at Berkeley. At the latter institution she was a member of Delta Phi Epsilon Sorority and scholarship chairman.

Miss Niderost, working with Miss Gladys Bohlen, has worked as a tutor in arithmetic and the language arts while living at a private boarding school. A graduate of St. Albert's School, Ukiah, she has had considerable experience doing recreation work with various groups and has served as counselor at summer camps.

Miss Felts received most of her academic training in Long Beach Schools, having graduated from Jordan High School and Long Beach City College before attending San Francisco State College in 1961. At Long Beach C.C., Miss Felts was president of Women Students, advisor to a girl scout troop, as well as a member of the Welfare and Social Clubs. She is doing her student teaching under Mrs. Margaret Beber.

Miss Lambert is receiving her teacher training in Mrs. Beatrice Maine's class. A graduate of Analay High in Sebastopol and Santa Rosa Junior College, where she was a member of the Home Economics Club, Miss

Student Work Seen By Their Parents

Orientation by individual classroom grade level at Vista Mar resulted in 350 parents being more conscientiously aware of the varied and thought provoking activities which children will experience this school year.

Between 7:30 and 8 p.m. on Tuesday parents sat in the same seats and went over, under individual teacher guidance, the daily program, which their child experiences.

Copies of these programs were given to parents to take home, as well as a sample writing guide to assist parents, who frequently request this material. Attractive room environment relative to interest centers of science, social studies, were noted as a motivational technique for the basic 3 R's.

Parents commented as they viewed work on children's desks and bulletin board that it appeared as if school had been in session "for longer than a month."

The sun has a surface temperature of 10,000 degrees Fahrenheit.

THOMAS EDISON

Continuing the program initiated last semester, Thomas Edison's physical fitness program is now underway again. This program is under the direction of Harry Aronson, principal, and Bruce Russell, sixth grade teacher.

The emphasis will be placed on three major areas: Building and conditioning of the legs, strengthening the abdominal area and developing the upper arm and shoulder regions.

The boys and girls are first put through a screening performance test, consisting of three activities: Squat thrusts, pull-ups and sit-ups. Performance in these activities indicate where strengths and weaknesses exist. After screening, pupils participate twice a week in remedial or developmental exercises aimed at improving performance. There will be four screening tests scheduled during the school year to determine the progress each pupil has gained in the three aforementioned areas.

Although a minimum performance has been set up, according to national standards, it is expected that boys and girls will, with practice and encouragement, exceed these minimums.

Thomas Edison Officers

Thomas Edison School's student council elected the student officers for the coming year. Officers who will lead the student body are as follows:

David Goldman, president; Scott Swanson, vice-president; Peter Bearsch, secretary, and Terry Brandburg, treasurer.

These students, along with a representative from each class, will meet with Mrs. Georgiana Nyhan, faculty advisor, twice a month. The purpose of the student council is to develop high standards of citizenship among the student body. They also assume responsibility for making decisions as to how our school can be a better place in which to live.

Edison Safety Patrol

The Thomas Edison safety patrol, with a membership of more than 50 students, is maintaining a safety guard at four intersections, eight times a day.

A special detail is assigned for escort of kindergarten pupils from classroom to intersection. The patrol is operating under the direction of W. J. Jonas, sixth grade teacher.

Resource Personality At Colma K-6 School

Indian life and culture was brought to Colma K-6 School by Mr. Grover C. Sanderson, also known as Chief Eaglewing, a Karuk Klamath River Indian of Northern California. Ceremonial dances and songs of his people were enjoyed by all the children.

The legend, "Coyote and the Stars," held the attention of the fourth graders, who are studying California Indians in their Social Studies unit.

Chief Eaglewing brought with him his very fine collection of artifacts from all the outstanding tribes in the United States. He showed the very ornate and authentic dress and headaddresses of his tribe. Marc D'Olive and Brad Perrone were a ceremonial dance dress and danced to Chief Eaglewing's splendid voice and drum.

The finale to Chief Eaglewing's presentation was the simple Indian dance he taught to the classes.

Research Engineer To Address San Mateo College Students

Engineering students of College of San Mateo will have the unusual opportunity on October 18 of hearing a nationally-recognized speaker in the field of aeronautical research.

Manley Hood, assistant director of the Ames Space Laboratory at Moffett Field and a member of the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics, will speak at 11 a. m. and again at 1 p. m. to students of the introductory engineering classes. Hood, who is en route to the eastern United States on business, will present the same lecture at College of San Mateo as he will present later this month at major mid-western and eastern universities.

Hood is a graduate in aeronautical engineering from the University of Kansas, where he will speak on October 30. He is a fellow of the Institute of Aeronautical Engineers, and from 1929 to 1940 was employed as an aeronautical research scientist at Langley Field, Va. His research has been in the field of aerodynamics, particularly in transonic range of speed. Among the inventions to his credit is an angle-of-attack indicator. He has been with Ames Laboratory since 1940.

Move To Eliminate Prefab Huts At SSF

To eliminate the need for three prefabricated huts used as classrooms in South San Francisco High School, an Administration wing is being constructed.

Moving the administrative offices into the new wing will provide new permanent classrooms.

Presently the administration offices are being housed in rooms originally intended for classrooms.

The new wing will accommodate the main, attendance, and counseling offices. It should be completed by January.

Built around a main record room, a courtyard will occupy the center of the wing. The first side will occupy a conference room; the second the attendance office; on the third side the counseling offices. The main office will occupy the fourth side.

Nu Sigma Holds Model Meeting

Nu Sigma, the Westlake chapter of Beta Sigma Phi, held a model meeting for prospective members Thursday at the home of Mrs. Robert Samuelson.

The sorority, which encourages social and cultural growth as well as community service, works in connection with the Peninsula Inter-city council and the inter-national headquarters in promoting benefits of a lasting nature. Cancer research, cystic fibrosis, and girls town are among the projects aided by the groups.

EL DORADO

El Dorado, located in El Dorado County, is reported by the National Automobile Club to have been an important gold town and stage station back in '49.

Desert Study

Miss Margaret Dwyer's 3rd grade at Vista Mar has been involved in a study of the desert. The construction of a miniature desert with living cactus was constructed. This was further enhanced by a mural made by the group depicting the various types of plants and animal life in the desert.

A worthwhile culmination of the study was a tour to the Randall Museum in San Francisco. The natural habitat of these desert animals in their natural setting made more meaningful to the group the classroom mural.

A small replica of the Pueblo Indians and their village was called to the attention of the group since the new social studies unit in which this group will engage is one of Pueblo Indian culture, background, and customs, as compared with our own way of life.

Indian Handicrafts

The partial culmination of a unit on California Indians was presented to visitors from Mrs. Susan Burney's 4th grade, as Mrs. Jeanne Oberlander's class dressed in Indian costumes of their own making, reported on their research findings.

Mrs. Oberlander's class had been divided into committees, with a chairman in charge of each committee. Reports and handicrafts were prepared by the various committees.

This worthwhile experience was further made meaningful by a visit to the Oakland Museum where crafts of California Indians was enjoyed. Ability to read, organize, and learn social concepts of sharing and listening were other worthwhile outcomes of the unit.

SSF Parents Study Teaching Methods

"Back to School Night" was sponsored by the South San Francisco High School PTA on Monday, October 1.

Parents followed student's schedules which conformed to a normal school day. Most parents had little trouble following their schedules, but one parent found herself reporting to E-2 for English only to discover that E-2 is a washroom.

Parents attended ten minute classes and were given five minutes to go from one class to another. When one bell rang, one parent ran down the hall saying, "I'm late. I had to stop at my locker."

In class, the teachers discussed with parents such topics as content of courses and methods of teaching.

School was out for the parents at 10 p.m. Refreshments were then served in the cafeteria.

Ballet Celeste Tryouts Slated

San Francisco's Ballet Celeste has scheduled two important events for this coming weekend. The first is an open audition for new members of the company which is the only group of its kind in the United States to have gained some tax support.

The audition will be conducted at the Harding Theater, 616 Divisadero street, on Saturday, October 20. Registration is at 9 a. m. Juniors are to try out at 10 a. m. and adults at 11 a. m. Awards will be made immediately, in order that all may attend the matinee performance of the Bolshoi's production of "Ballet School," for which five members of Ballet Celeste were selected.

Sunday, October 21, at 8 p. m., also at the Harding Theater, a free performance will be given by the artists as a tribute to the new members. The public is cordially invited to attend. No tickets are needed. Free parking is also available.
